

Economic Recovery & Resiliency Resources for Business & Local Leaders

Starting today, you can become a stronger champion for economic recovery and resiliency in our community.

February 16, 2018

Economic Recovery & Resiliency Efforts Following Hurricane Irma Workshop

9:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.
Citrus County Chamber
915 N. Suncoast Blvd.
Crystal River, FL 34429

This is a chance to network with other local and regional leaders and to understand more about how you can be most effective in supporting local economic recovery from Hurricane Irma.

The workshop will be especially useful for people in a business or community leadership position and will provide inspiring examples from communities around the country that have experienced and recovered from disasters.

In partnership with the Florida Regional Planning Councils (RPCs), Florida Department of Economic Opportunity (DEO), the International Economic Development Council (IEDC), and federal partners, the U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA) is hosting “Economic Recovery and Resiliency Efforts Following Hurricane Irma” workshops in February 2018.

About IEDC: IEDC is the world’s largest and oldest organization for advancement of the economic development profession. With more than 5,000 members, IEDC is a non-profit 501(c)3 membership organization dedicated to helping communities of all sizes to create more high-quality jobs, develop more vibrant communities, and improve the quality of life. Learn more about IEDC’s economic recovery programs at www.RestoreYourEconomy.org.

