Initial Review of Resumes will begin on February 5, 2020

The Tampa Bay Regional Planning Council (TBRPC) is looking for an environmental planner or senior environmental planner to support the Council's work on regional environmental management and resilience related activities. TBRPC serves the communities of the Tampa Bay metropolitan area with planning, economic analysis, resiliency, emergency management and other services to the local governments of six counties along Florida's Gulf Coast.

The selected candidate will work on a variety of projects related to the Agency on Bay Management (ABM), the Tampa Bay region's advocate for the Tampa Bay ecosystem; various outreach efforts to strengthen public input into environmental decision making and the region's continued resilience in the face of anticipated dramatic changes to global climate. The environmental planner will work across various Council programs while collaborating with external stakeholders and governmental entities.

Specific duties include staff support of ABM, grant writing, grant management and report writing. The incumbent will provide technical assistance on environmental issues to TBRPC staff, and, as directed, to outside partner agencies. A Senior Environmental Planner will be expected to lead the ABM into a more visible role in the region's environmental decision making. The ideal candidate will have a Master's degree in environmental planning, environmental management or environmental science education.
