Senior Planner, REACH Project

Open Until Filled- Posted January 15, 2020

Hiring Range: $50,000- $60,000 DOQ

Initial Review of Resumes will begin on February 5, 2020

The Tampa Bay Regional Planning Council (TBRPC) is seeking a senior planner to support the new Resilience and Energy Analysis of Communities and Housing in the Tampa Bay Area (REACH) project. TBRPC serves the communities of the Tampa Bay metropolitan area with planning, economic analysis, resiliency, emergency management and other services to the local governments of six counties along Florida's Gulf Coast.

Under supervision, the selected candidate will manage the REACH research and planning activities that will integrate affordable housing, neighborhoods and community redevelopment into climate vulnerability assessments and resilience planning. The incumbent will work with and coordinate a team of sub-contractors from universities, non-profits and housing advocacy organizations, and engage local governments to:

- define risks, frameworks, and metrics for community social vulnerability and affordable housing;
- create consistent standards for mapping housing inundation and risk zones;
- support the production of new maps, geospatial data and reports;
- provide training to local governments to analyze their housing and development policy.

The incumbent will also be responsible for analyzing data pertaining to community vulnerability, resilience planning and housing policy gaps. Moreover, the incumbent will be responsible for ensuring the timely execution of project deliverables among the partner agencies and TBRPC to support the development of the Regional Resilience Action Plan.

The ideal candidate will have a Master's degree or Doctor of Philosophy in urban planning or public administration, with experience in affordable housing programs, community development and disaster recovery and strong data management skills.

Further information regarding the position and application form can be accessed on the Council website at www.tbrpc.org. Please submit a cover letter, resume, and completed application to Wren G. Krahl, Deputy Executive Director, wren@tbrpc.org.
